The American Society of Dentistry for Children celebrated its 50th anniversary and hosted the sixth congress of the International Association of Dentistry for Children.

International delegates to the IADC congress included dentists from all parts of the world, including several from communist countries.

A NEW ASSOCIATION EMBLEM

Following advertisement in the Journal of the IADC, the subcommittee on emblems had considered 22 entries and had selected one submitted by Vera N. Warren (UK), a recommendation accepted by Council.

Scientific presentations at the joint meeting were translated into French, English and Japanese.

EMBLEM
The International Association of Dentistry for Children would like an EMBLEM.
We invite all supporting members to submit designs for an Emblem or Symbol to represent this Association. Entries (in black and white) should be submitted on this card. No lettering should be included in the design, and applicants may submit more than one design.
Submit entries to Prof. G. B. Winter, Hon. Secretary, Institute of Dental Surgery, Eastman Dental Hospital, Gray's Inn Road, London, WC1X 8LD.

ASSOCIATION ARTICLES ARE ESTABLISHED

Three groups of members were defined:

Effective: national paedodontic societies or specialized sections of national dental associations

Supporting: legal dental practitioners interested in dentistry for children (no right to vote);

Honorary: limited number of distinguished people who have made extraordinary contributions to realize the objectives of the Association.

Council agreed that the IADC would meet on alternate years in a member nation's country.

IADC MISSION

In addition to promoting international friendship between children's dentists it would provide a forum for the exchange of information and knowledge internationally on matters relating to child dental health.
