E. EXAMINATION PROCEDURE

By submitting the application to sit for the IAPD Fellowship examination, candidates agree to give online access to their computer or laptop, including its microphone and camera to an online invigilator (proctor).

Prior to the exam candidates will be required to book an exam time slot and to test their equipment with the Proctor, in order to ensure that no technical problems occur on the day of the exam. Failure to book a time slot and test your equipment will mean that the candidate will not be authorized to take the exam.

Surroundings – the room where the candidate decides to take the exam must be quiet, with no distractions and no other people. The candidate must not refer to any materials including use of mobile phone/tablet, books or notes. Failure to adhere to the rules set out renders the candidate's exam result invalid.

Candidates are required to use a private computer and internet connection as firewalls from public or organizational internet connections can restrict access to the proctoring service and mean that the candidate will be unable to sit the exam.

The following are NOT permitted during the exam: Pen & paper, food, books, notes, mobile phone, tablet or calculator.

On examination day, candidates must ensure that they log-on at their pre-booked time; as with a physical exam, late candidates cannot be accepted.

Exam Proctoring (the online invigilator) - ProctorU, a company that specialises in invigilating exams remotely will be directly monitoring the examinee throughout the exam. The invigilator is there to monitor the candidate throughout the exam and assist with any technical problems.

The candidate's computer camera and microphone will need to be on for the duration of the exam. The camera will be used not only to monitor, but also to check the examinee's identity and survey the surroundings.

F. SCORING & RESULTS

1. One point is awarded for each correctly answered question.
2. There is no negative marking for incorrect answers.
3. An unanswered question is considered incorrect.
4. After the examination, all answers are sent to an independent partnering institution for results evaluation and statistical analysis.
5. In order to pass the examination, candidates must score a number of points equal or higher than the passing score set by the IAPD fellowship committee. The passing score will be set only after results evaluation and statistical analysis are performed after the exam.
6. Within 4–6 weeks after the examination date, the examination results will be available. A list of successful candidates will be published on the IAPD website (if permission has been given in the online profile). Each candidate will also receive a notification email.
